

For complete releases,
visit www.officeinsight.com/officenevswire.

officenevswire officeinsight

NOTEWORTHY

>Nick Haritos was promoted to president of AIS, effective Jul. 1.

In his new role, Mr. Haritos will lead daily operations and sales. Bruce Platzman will remain as CEO and Arthur Maxwell will continue as chairman of the board. With a management and business development career spanning over three decades, Mr. Haritos has worked in the office furniture industry for nearly 30 years. Previously, he spent 16 years at Haworth, most recently as vice president of sales and distribution where he covered a five-region territory spanning from New England to the Caribbean. Prior to Haworth, he was senior vice president of sales for Office Environments of New England. For the past three and a half years, he has been Executive Vice President of Sales and Distribution at AIS. In his position, he led all sales and distribution efforts throughout North America and supported the company's ambitious growth plans. "I could not be more excited to have Nick move into this role," said Mr. Platzman. "His extensive industry knowledge and proven experience at the dealership and manufacturer level have prepared him in the most valuable ways. Nick will lead AIS forward with strength and strategy, ensuring our industry-leading growth continues in the years ahead." Read More

Nick Haritos

>Eric Lockwood was promoted to Director of Design for Tangram Technology.

Mr. Lockwood has more than 27 years of experience in technology consulting, design and integration for the built environment. He has worked in the Americas, Europe and Asia, and previously served as a senior account executive for Tangram Technology where he successfully led complex technical designs and oversaw enterprise-wide system implementations for his customers. In his new position as Director of Design, he will focus on design innovation and customization to address new technological challenges, many of which have been accelerated by the pandemic. These challenges – or opportunities – arise not only from the evolving technologies themselves but also from changing work modes such as flexible or hybrid models as defined by a given organization, and from understanding and predicting the work of the future not just the future of the workspace. He will also drive new initiatives to harmonize technology integration with architecture, interiors and furniture to promote a seamless, blended experience that generates value and ignites potential for users while enhancing an organization's brand and culture. Mr. Lockwood's current clients include the Writers Guild of America, Chapman University, and CoreLogic. Read More

Eric Lockwood

>Meghan Sherwin was promoted from Vice President, Marketing to Chief Marketing Officer of Keilhauer.

Ms. Sherwin has been with Keilhauer since 2017, where she has led the portfolios of Brand & Product Marketing, Textiles, Sustainability, Public Relations and Showrooms across all markets. She initiated and led the latest masterbrand transition, launched the company's first carbon neutral office chair, led the development of the award-winning Division Twelve branding and delivered a new customer-first strategy. As Keilhauer's first CMO, she will continue to provide strategic leadership within the Marketing and Sustainability departments, but her purview will now extend to include Customer Service, Warranty and Outbound Logistics. Prior to joining Keilhauer as VP of Marketing, Ms. Sherwin spent 20+ years delivering award-winning advertising across global Fortune 100 brands such as Kraft, Sam-sung, Gillette and Mastercard. She developed Kraft North America's first Influencer eCRM platform, launched Samsung Canada's first experience retail environment and launched the McCann WorldGroup's Deep Practice of Tourism. Read More

Meghan Sherwin

>Bill Sotomayor was promoted to Principal in the New York office of Ware Malcomb.

In this position, he is responsible for the overall leadership and growth of the New York office, as well as regional leadership of the interiors practice in the Northeast. Before joining Ware Malcomb in 2014, Mr. Sotomayor ran his own company, providing architectural and interior design services to corporate, retail, publishing, media, and law firm clients. He expanded his New York City-based firm to a second location in New Jersey, and later sold and merged with a large architectural design firm. He opened the Ware Malcomb New York office as Regional Director and has led the office's growth with his expansive regional knowledge and savvy business development acumen. He continues to successfully foster and expand