Keilhauer's Pact Collection Provides A Unique Solution For Space Conscious Workplaces

by Elise Shapiro(<https://www.workdesign.com/author/elise-shapiroworkdesign-com/>)

The Pact(http://www.keilhauer.com/products/pact.html?utm_source=lounge&utm_medium=internal) collection by Keilhauer(<http://www.keilhauer.com/home.html>) not only supports both privacy and communication, but also is made from sustainable materials.

Pact can be utilized in a variety of settings for the next iteration of workspace.

Finding furniture of the perfect size and scale to fit into today's workspaces is often a challenge.

Keilhauer(<http://www.keilhauer.com/home.html>) is introducing a new collection of workplace furniture that will perform perfectly as designers are looking to refresh and retrofit in preparation for the eventual return to the socially distanced office.

Keilhauer's newest collection, Pact™, is a sleek, space conscious response to the modern office's most challenging demands. It's no secret that the cost of real estate has resulted in workplaces with smaller footprints. From open concept, to tightly clustered pods, attempts to balance real estate limitations with lounge and collaborative spaces has been a challenge because of scale. Pact, designed for Keilhauer by EOOS(<http://www.eoos.com/cms/>), provides a unique solution to this challenge by providing compact, multi-functional, soft-contract pieces that support both privacy and communication.

Originally inspired by the rising popularity of phone booth and pocket spaces, Pact is a 50-piece collection of seating, benches, tables, privacy screens and panels. Each piece is meticulously proportioned to work in the most common sizes of pods and telephone booths, while also being able to stand alone or create customized groupings. Tailored cushions, right-angled corners, delicate legs minimize Pact's footprint while maximizing comfort and applications.

As with all Keilhauer furniture, Pact is built from the highest quality materials. Pact is expected to carry BIFMA LEVEL® 2 and SCS Global Services certification for Indoor Air Quality at the Indoor Advantage™ Gold level. It is manufactured in facilities that produce zero waste to landfill, and which offset 100 percent of electricity use with renewable energy credits.

Fitting the niche for both privacy and flexibility, Pact is a resource for today's office settings.

Where does the Pact collection fit into the spectrum of workplace furniture solutions?

Pact provides a unique solution for space conscious workplaces by providing a compact, multi-functional, soft contract pieces that support both privacy and communication.

Does this product line support agile and activity – based workplaces that are becoming so prevalent in new and refurbished facilities? If so, how?

Pact supports agile and activity – based workplaces by providing a flexible solution that can be used to delineate space but also encourages collaboration through flexible configurations. You can create booths that provide private meeting spaces in an open room, you can create individual movable phone booths with the pact chair and screens, or you can create a configuration of benches that allows for multiple collaborative meetings happening at once.

There are multiple ways to separate spaces within the Pact collection.

Can you tell a story or give an example of how this product or service will help our readers design and implement great workplace solutions?

The Pact chair provides the ultimate workplace solution. Designed by EOOS and inspired by the “Thinker Pose”, it provides both left and right-handed workers that ideal spot for a phone call or a collaborative meeting. One product, multiple solutions.
