Keilhauer Welcomes New Sustainability Officer

➡ Keilhauer has appointed Joseph Palladino as its new sustainability officer. He will manage and oversee environmental and corporate social responsibility functions and be responsible for maintaining Keilhauer’s comprehensive Planet Keilhauer sustainability program. Palladino will also be responsible for developing, maintaining and improving Keilhauer’s environmental certifications, such as BIFMA LEVEL, Cradle to Cradle, Indoor Air Quality and Forest Stewardship Council, plus the company’s growing carbon neutral offerings and programs.

Palladino

Chief Marketing Officer Meghan Sherwin said, “His vast knowledge and experience with environmental management and developing corporate sustainability programs make him the ideal candidate to continue the advancement of Keilhauer’s goal of becoming a closed-loop manufacturer.”

Palladino joins the Keilhauer team with experience in integrating sustainable solutions into the business function. A firm believer in the principle of “doing well by doing good,” his specialties include the development of corporate sustainability programs, environmental management and compliance systems and sustainability certifications. He previously served as a sustainability consultant with Toronto-based CD Sonter Environmental Consultants, providing guidance to clients looking to exceed their sustainability targets, communicate their environmental programs and commitments and reduce their impact on the environment. He has also served as the sustainability manager for Silver Hotel Group, where he created and managed the company’s inaugural corporate sustainability policies and eight-year corporate sustainability strategy.

Palladino’s academic training includes a Master of Science in Sustainability Management (University of Toronto) and an Honors Bachelor of Arts in Urban Geography and Canadian Policy (McMaster University).

Elizabeth Starr Promoted to Partner at Strang Design

➡ Strang Design has promoted design director Elizabeth Starr to partner and managing director. Starr will join Max Strang and long-standing partners Jason Adams and Alex Mangimelli.

Starr

“Elizabeth has been a key player in the continued growth and success of the firm,” Strang said. “She continuously displays not only dedication, but passion and a keen sense of detail in her work.”

Since joining the team in 2012, Starr has played an essential role in many of the high-profile, award-winning projects, including North Bay Road Residence, San Marino Residence, The Fairchild Grove and San Marco Residence. She will continue to serve as a design director where she oversees the implementation of all aspects of the firm’s design process, drawing production, coordination with consultants and construction administration.

“Not only is diversity recruitment the right thing to do, it is the smart thing to do.”
